he Florida Department of Military Affairs (DMA) provides management oversight and administrative support to the Florida National Guard (FLNG). Directly responsive to the Governor of Florida, the Department operates within the policy guidance and fiscal framework of both federal and state authorities. The Department manages a force of nearly 12,000 National Guard members, including almost 2,200 full-time military personnel, and more than 450 state employees. Together, the DMA and the FLNG are committed to serving the vital interests of the nation, the state of Florida, and its communities.

The Adjutant General, as head of the Department, is specifically tasked with (1) the readiness of the Florida National Guard, (2) its response in times of natural disaster, and (3) assistance to Floridians at risk.

Tracing its heritage back to 1565, the year the Spanish founders of St. Augustine organized their first company of citizen-soldiers, the Florida National Guard's militia heritage extends back into our communities more than 449 years. Whether it was a call to arms during our nation's conflicts, or a cry for help during a natural disaster, the Guard has been there for Florida.

Today the historic St. Francis Barracks in St. Augustine serves as the headquarters for the Florida National Guard, which is comprised of the Florida Army National Guard and the Florida Air National Guard.

Today Florida National Guard Soldiers and Airmen remain engaged in overseas contingency operations, are vigilant in preparations to respond to domestic emergencies, and are committed to serving Florida's citizens and communities.

MISSION

To provide ready military units and personnel to support national security objectives; to protect our citizens; and to support programs and initiatives which add value to our state and nation.

Adjutant General's Report HISTORY SHAPING OUR FUTURE

he Soldiers and Airmen of the Florida National Guard are the proud inheritors of the oldest militia tradition of any state in the continental United States.

For nearly four and a half centuries, citizens in Florida have put aside the tools of their civilian trades and picked up tools of combat - from swords and muskets, to rifles and computers – in defense of their nation, state and communities.

While these soldiers have served Florida under different flags and standards since the 16th century, the men and women who wear the modern uniform of the Florida National Guard trace their symbolic roots and militia tradition through this rich and varied history.

Historians believe the first muster of militia conducted in (what would later be) the continental United States was held on Sept. 16, 1565, when Pedro Menendez de Aviles gathered around him the soldiers of his small Spanish army, as well as the civilian settlers who had accompanied him to the newly established presidio town of St. Augustine. He was about to march north to the French settlement of Fort Caroline near the mouth of the St. Johns River, and because his plan called for the use of the majority of his regular soldiers, Menendez drew upon Spanish laws governing the milicia, or militia, in an imperial province. As both the civil governor and the commander-in-chief of the military establishment, he had the authority to call all free male settlers in the presidio province to active service.

The exact location of this "first muster" is unknown, but historians and archeologists believe it lies a few miles north of the Florida National Guard headquarters, most likely near the present site of the Fountain of Youth and the Mission of Nombre de Dios in St. Augustine.

For nearly two centuries, the Spanish governed Florida and defended its settlements with militia soldiers until 1763 when the area was briefly an English possession. During that time citizen-soldiers in Florida assisted the British military, but when Florida reverted to Spain again in 1783 the Spanish militia heritage was resumed.

When the United States took ownership of Florida in 1821 after the ratification of the Adams-Onís Treaty, militiamen serving in Florida were now American citizen-Soldiers.

Throughout the 19th century members of the militia served in several conflicts, beginning with the bloody Second Seminole War of 1835. During this long, costly and deadly war fought in the lightly populated Territory of Florida, many citizens formed militia units in the larger settlements. The militia-service tradition continued through the Mexican War, the American Civil War, and the Spanish-American War.

The 20th century again found Florida's citizen-soldiers engaged in conflicts: both World Wars; Korea; Vietnam; Operation Desert Shield/Storm in 1991.

The founding of the Florida Air National Guard in 1947 paved the way for nearly 70 years of service by citizen-Airmen. Members of the 159th Fighter Squadron participated in the Korean War, and during the next 40 years the Florida Air National Guard was an important part of America's defense during the "Cold War."

Sept. 11, 2001, is a milestone date for the Florida National Guard; it began a series of mobilizations that provided immediate security force augmentation at our state's major airports, seaports, nuclear power plants, and continued throughout the early 2000s as the Florida National Guard provided resources and manpower for support to wartime operations. These included historic deployments in support of Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan and Operation Iragi Freedom/New Dawn in Irag and Southwest Asia. By 2013 more than 17,000 members of the Florida National Guard – both Army and Air – had deployed around the world for numerous operations.

Today the nearly 12,000 Soldiers and Airmen who make up the Florida National Guard are carrying a figurative "banner" of militia service, first waved nearly 450 years ago by the followers of Pedro Menendez de Aviles. Whether they are deploying overseas for a federal mission, or mobilizing at home for a Defense Support of Civil Authorities (DSCA) event, Florida National Guardsmen embody a legacy of selfless service that will carry our force into an active and relevant future.

From the "New World" of the 16th century to the "New Horizons" of the 21st century, the Florida National Guard has been serving Florida across 450 years of history!

From the 'New World' of the 16th century to the 'New Horizons' of the 21st century, the Florida National Guard has been serving Florida across 450 years of history!

Message from the ASSISTANT ADJUTANT GENERAL - AIR

Colonel
Perry L. Hagaman
Assistant Adjutant General – Army

The Florida Army National Guard has a deep and proud heritage dating back to 1565, and we continue today to proudly serve and safeguard our state and nation alongside our local first responders and our nation's other components and services.

With a force of nearly 10,000 Soldiers, we provide support to the state during domestic crises such as hurricanes, wildfires and floods and other events that impact the security of our citizens. We perform a wide range of missions, to include search and rescue, traffic management, medical care and evacuation; road clearing and distribution of critical life-support supplies, among others. Our constant and visible presence in every community in our state helps assure our citizens that we are ready to quickly respond when disaster strikes to protect life and property.

The Florida Army National Guard also remains a combat-ready force to answer the call of the nation. Since 9/11 we have deployed nearly 15,000 Soldiers, and we continue to serve overseas while maintaining our readiness to protect the homeland. Our families and employers have dutifully supported our commitments and have willingly sacrificed to ensure our success.

Resource shortfalls and impending force reductions have been the greatest challenges to our force. I am proud of the strong and dedicated leadership, adaptability and innovation that has enabled us to weather the storm; however, these challenge will persist in the coming years, and we will rely upon the advocacy of our elected leaders to ensure we remain the ready and accessible force upon which our citizens have come to rely.

I am honored to serve with the best Soldiers in our Nation ... on a team that embraces the motto "Teammates Helping Teammates." The Soldiers of the Florida Army National Guard will continue to complete every mission with the highest degree of success and will remain "Always Ready ... Always There."

Sincerely

Fiscal Year 2014 not only marked the 449th anniversary of our First Muster here in Florida, but it was also the 67th birthday of the United States Air Force. Our Florida Air National Guard traces its roots back through the early days of the U.S. Air Force, and today – more than half a century later – we are a relevant and dynamic reserve component that serves proudly alongside our active duty and Army National Guard counterparts.

The tireless and unwavering commitment by our Florida Airmen to their missions is impressive. For the past 13 years we have asked our men and women – and by default their families – to do the nearly impossible mission of balancing multiple overseas deployments with critical homeland defense missions here in Florida. They have been tested in a crucible of constant challenges that stretched from the mountains of Afghanistan to the skies over South Florida. In retrospect the Florida Air National Guard was forged into a stronger and more efficient organization that is readily facing the next 30 years.

Because of a scarcity of resources, budgetary constraints, and a shrinking active duty Air Force that creates uncertainty, our Airmen know that success is always in their hands. Since we are integrated and aligned closely with the active duty Air Force, additional reliance on our Airmen and their remarkable talents is only a natural evolution of our organization.

While serving with our Florida Air National Guard this past year I noticed that one common bond – one persistent thread – was visible in each person I met: a willingness to embrace and live our three Core Values of Integrity First, Service Before Self, and Excellence in All We Do. These are not platitudes, but philosophies that are deeply ingrained in everyone from the newest Airman to our most senior officers. This is what sets us apart from other organizations.

Thank you for allowing me to serve as your commander, and I look forward to another productive and progressive year where the men and women of the Florida Air National Guard continue to prove we are the best Air National Guard in the nation!

Brigadier General
James O. Eifert

he 53rd Infantry Brigade Combat Team (IBCT) had an outstanding year supporting the nation and the state. Its federal mission is: to mobilize; conduct post mobilization training; and deploy and conduct combat operations. Its mission for the state of Florida is to conduct Defense Support of Civil Authorities (DSCA) in response to civil disturbance, disasters, and other events, as directed. In the past year the brigade executed two major training events at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and Camp Blanding Joint Training

In July 2014 the brigade participated in an eXportable Combat Training Center, (XCTC) rotation as the exercise commander, training more than 5,000 service members from ten different units from the active and reserve components. The 53rd executed a brigade level air assault that was one of the few conducted by either the active or reserve component in the past few years.

66 In the past year the brigade executed two major training events at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and Camp Blanding Joint Training Center, Fla.

The 1st and 2nd Battalions of 124th Infantry Regiment participated in both the Warfighter and XCTC exercises. In the XCTC, they focused on movement to contact, deliberate attack, platoon and company defense; zone recon, urban area recon, infiltration and mortar firing.

The 1st Squadron, 153rd Cavalry Regiment, and the 2nd Battalion, 116th Field Artillery Regiment, participated in both the Warfighter and XCTC exercises. The 146th Expeditionary Signal Battalion (ESB) and the 356th QM Company under the 260th MI Battalion provided support for the Homeland Security Communication Mission to the United States Northern Command (NORTHCOM) and the Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, Explosive Enhanced Response Force Package (CERF-P) in Operation Vigilant Peacekeeper. This exercise allowed the 146th ESB to conduct operations with active duty, Reserves, and National Guard units from across the United States at Camp Atterbury, Ind. The exercise scenario focused on a simulated nuclear explosion in a major city.

The RSG also conducted a diverse range of annual training events during the past year. Both the 50th RSG and the 930th DLD participated in training events in South Korea, supporting Ulc hi Freedom Guardian and Key Resolve. Florida Air National Guard

125th FIGHTER WING

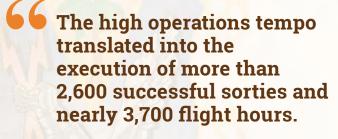

Colonel Brian M. Simpler Commander, 125th FW

he 125th Fighter Wing (125FW) has proudly protected the skies over the southeastern United States with Strategic Air Defense since 1947 and in 2014, the tradition continued. The Nation's premier F-15C unit made a global impact through flawless execution of missions, both local and abroad. The 125FW has deployed members in support of Operations Noble Eagle and Enduring Freedom (OEF). Additionally, more than 700 members were federally activated in support of high priority local missions.

The 125FW Force Support Squadron was the first in the nation to be certified by the National Guard Bureau (NGB) as a Fatality Search and Recovery Team (FSRT), adding highvalue disaster response capabilities to the state and nation. As the FSRT earned its certification, the 125FW Medical Group provided triage support as a part of the CBRNE Enhanced Response Force Package (CERFP), becoming first in the nation to receive a "trained" or "T" rating in every area. The Wing Inspector General Team has been on the leading edge of the new Air Force Inspection System, to ensure mission success.

The 125FW Detachment 1 was awarded the highest possible rating by the North American Aerospace Defense Command Inspector General during an Alert Force Evaluation.

The high operations tempo translated into the execution of more than 2,600 successful sorties and nearly 3,700 flight hours. The Wing's participation in several exercises, to include TRIDENT security at Langley AFB in July 2013, SENTRY Savannah in February 2014 and RED FLAG-Alaska in June 2014, helped advance emerging technical concepts and relationships with other nations. The wing closed the FY14 flying hour program as the number one unit in the Air National Guard for both F-15 sorties and flying hours per month, earning the title of the Premier Fighter Wing.

Florida Air National Guard DETACHMENT 1, HQs FLANG

Florida Air National Guard 101st AIR & SPACE OPERATIONS GROUP

Colonel David W. Silva Commander, Detachment 1, HQs FLANG

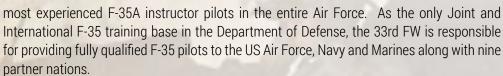

he mission of Headquarters (HQs) Florida Air National Guard (FLANG), Det-1 is to provide highly experienced F-22 and F-35 instructor pilots to support the 325th and 33rd Fighter Wings' missions. The primary mission of both fighter wings is to train the next generation of fighter pilots for the Combat Air Forces. This mission is executed handin-hand with both the Active Duty and Air Force Reserve components, making HQs FLANG Det-1 the only true total force organization in the fighter community.

Det-1 played a critical role during the 325th FW's recent conversion from Air Education and Training Command to Air Combat Command. In October, the 95th Fighter Squadron was reactivated bringing the first-ever operational combat capability to Tyndall AFB. With 21 combatcoded F-22s, the experience and expertise of FLANG pilots ensured the 325th FW met full operational capability (combat ready) ahead of schedule providing unmatched combat capability to combatant commanders.

During Tyndall's conversion, the FLANG provided much-needed continuity to ensure the core mission of training F-22 pilots went on uninterrupted. In fact, the 325th achieved both record sortie and student production at a time when flying hours and resources were in extremely high demand.

The F-35 program at Eglin AFB continued to build toward full operational status and FLANG pilots were at the forefront of this endeavor with two of the HQs FLANG Det-1 boasts a proud track record of being the cutting edge of Total Force Integration and Air Dominance Training and is once again poised to demonstrate that commitment to excellence.

he 601st Air Operations Center and 101st Air and Space Operations Group, collectively referred to as "America's AOC," are responsible for defending the skies over the continental United States. When requested, the AOC supports civil authorities by providing urgent lifesaving relief and rescue operations during natural or man-made disasters and engages with coalition partners to enhance security.

Over the past year, in addition to performing its 24/7, no-fail air defense mission, America's AOC also provided the air defense shield for the 68th United Nations General Assembly, the State of the Union Address and Super Bowl XLVIII. For these events, the AOC's Combat Information Cell (CIC) informed pilots of upcoming temporary flight restrictions (TFRs) and any air defense measures that were in place. Additionally, the CIC conducted outreach initiatives to support short-notice VIP TFRs for Presidential visits throughout the country.

The AOC received a rating of 'mission ready' in all areas during this year's Region Alert Force Evaluation, the highest rating attainable.

The AOC's Air Mobility Division (AMD) experienced an active fire season, and was responsible for monitoring four Modular Airborne Fire Fighting System-equipped C-130 units. These units conducted more than 570 missions, dispersing approximately 1.4 million gallons of fire retardant over the western United States.

The AOC received a rating of "mission ready" in all areas during this year's Region Alert Force Evaluation, the highest rating attainable. During the evaluation, inspectors identified 10 superior performers, a "best seen to date" for the AOC planning process and a "best practice" for the CIC's general aviation outreach efforts for Super Bowl XLVIII. The AOC also received an "Excellent" rating on the 2014 Defense Information Systems Agency Command Cyber Readiness Inspection. The AOC and 101st Air Communications Squadron spent several months leading up to the inspection evaluating and securing the network enterprise to earn this rating. The members continue to dedicate their personal and professional lives to defending our skies and ensuring our freedom. 🔏

Florida Air National Guard 131st TRAINING FLIGHT/159th WEATHER FLIGHT

114th SPACE CONTROL SQUADRON

Lieutenant Colonel John A. Malpass Commander, 114th SPCS

he past year has been one of much change and adaptability for the 114th Space Control Squadron (SPCS). During 2014 the 114th was re-missioned from its role as a Range Operations Squadron, providing critical space launch range safety and instrumentation support to the 45th Operations Group during all launches from Cape Canaveral AFS/Kennedy Space Center. In its new role, the 114th SPCS is responsible for delivering defensive and offensive counterspace and space situational awareness in support of theater and global campaigns. During the transition, the Squadron is focused on training for the new mission and acquiring needed equipment for facilities.

In its new role the 114th SPCS is responsible for delivering defensive and offensive counterspace and space situational awareness in support of theater and global campaigns.

As the squadron's federal mission changes, the 114th SPCS continues to be available for state contingencies (hurricanes, floods, fires, domestic response, etc.) and is subject to activation by the Governor of Florida in times of emergency. The primary mission, once activated, is to man the Emergency Support Function #5 (Information and Planning) at the State Emergency Operations Center in Tallahassee, Fla.

The Squadron continues to transition to a new sensitive and high-profile mission, but the Airmen of the 114th SPCS will rise to the challenge and will remain a highly valued asset to the state and nation.

131st TRAINING FLIGHT

he 131st Training Flight (TRF) trains Total Force Airmen to meet the needs of Air Force and Air National Guard (ANG), by producing tomorrow's Weather Warriors.

The 131st TRF trains all new ANG graduates of the Initial Skills Course at Keesler AFB, Miss., in the Weather Applications Course (WAC) over a period of 120 days. This course provides training on the optimization of weather intelligence and information used to support Army units (mostly at division, brigade or squadron level): Infantry/Stryker/Heavy Brigade Combat Teams, both Army and Air Force Aviation assets, Unmanned Aerial Systems (UAS), and Special Operations.

The various Air Force missions our students support include: Air Sovereignty; Air Interdiction; Close Air Support; Tactical Airlift Control Flight Elements; and Remotely Piloted Aircraft (RPA) or Intelligence Surveillance Reconnaissance missions. Training to a diverse mission set enables the 131st TRF staff to gauge the quality of the training provided with the various missions supported.

The 131st TRF supports over 40 weather flights and ANG weather teams assigned to Air Wings throughout the United States. The 131st TRF continues to provide weather teams the training to be value-added weather intelligence enablers that optimize mission execution.

he 159th Weather Flight continues to take part in a wide range of operations and training for domestic operations for both the state and nation. The 159th is tasked to provide support to the 185thTheater Aviation Brigade (THAB) from the Mississippi Army National Guard, Florida Army National Guard's 53rd Infantry Brigade Combat Team (IBCT) and the Georgia Army National Guard's 48th IBCT.

The unit continues to develop tailored support to the Florida National Guard's Joint Emergency Operations Center (JEOC) to support state emergencies, such as wildfires and hurricanes. The weather forecasters develop products to allow Florida National Guard commanders valuable weather intelligence information needed to optimize state assets while ensuring the safety of its Airmen and Soldiers who support civilian agencies in the field.

The emphasis on combat skills training increased the past year with 159th Weather Flight's members being trained in a wide variety of skills that provides a "Battlefield Airman" who can operate alongside combat troops. This training focuses on operating specialized weapons and survival skills. The 159th Weather Flight members take great pride in supporting any mission presented to them.

Florida Air National Guard 202nd REDHORSE SQUADRON

Florida Air National Guard 290th JOINT COMMUNICATIONS SUPPORT SQUADRON

Robert J. Niesen Commander, 202nd REDHORSE

he mission of the 202nd Rapid Engineer Deployable Heavy Operational Repair Squadron Engineers (REDHORSE) is to field a rapidly deployable self-sustained heavy construction team capable of constructing an airbase in austere conditions anywhere in the world. That same capability is equally important at home during domestic operations in support of emergency response actions nationwide.

Within the community, the 202nd is building a relationship with Seamark Ranch, a children's home dedicated to ensuring children are raised in a nurturing, disciplined family environment.

After a series of overseas deployments, exercises and domestic operations, the 202nd REDHORSE Squadron (RHS) focused last year on core skill training and process retooling, as well as a number of construction projects. The 202nd worked with fellow Army National Guard engineers on an Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) airfield project along with the planning and construction of a wood framed storage building and improvements to the Avenue D gate entry at Camp Blanding Joint Training Center. Additionally, the 202nd assisted in the design and implementation of site improvements to the west end of the 125th Fighter Wing's base which will eventually include site utilities, a running track and other field amenities.

Within the community, the 202nd is building a relationship with Seamark Ranch, a children's home dedicated to ensuring children are raised in a nurturing, disciplined family environment.

his year the 290th Joint Communications Support Squadron (JCSS) celebrated 30 years of providing globally deployable, en-route, and early entry communications support to the regional combatant commands, the United States Special Operations, other services and agencies, and the State of Florida.

Over the past 12 months the 290th JCSS deployed members to Qatar and Afghanistan in support of special operations' communications requirements. In addition to providing communication support, the squadron deployed Airmen with the State Partnership Program to the Caribbean and to Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam; and with the Pacific Partnership 2014 to the Philippines in support of Pacific Fleet's largest Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief mission.

The 290th JCSS also provided support to the community by exceeding the goal for contributions to the Combined Federal Campaign, volunteering hundreds of hours in community outreach programs, and running in a relay from Miami to Key West.

While serving their country and community, many 290th Airmen pursued higher education goals, graduating from professional military education courses, the Community College of the Air Force, as well as several programs at Florida colleges and universities. The 290th JCSS has always been, and will continue to be, the voice of freedom!

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT FISCAL YEAR 2014 ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT FISCAL YEAR 2014

Florida National Guard COUNTERDRUG PROGRAM

TARBASE is a Department of Defense program that immerses at-risk youth in an engaging Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) environment. Classes are taught at the 125th Fighter Wing in Jacksonville. This year, STARBASE Florida reached its 20-year milestone and in December surpassed 20,000 students served.

In 2014, and with the support of numerous agencies and grants, the program moved out of its 18-year-old modular building into a permanent classroom. Additionally, the program is coordinating with the Title I programs of Duval County Public Schools (DCPS) to explore options to expand their outreach to Naval Air Station, Jacksonville.

In FY 14 dynamic leadership in the Florida Air National Guard, a strong relationship with DCPS, and dedication by the staff at STARBASE, continued the program's success and helped it thrive during some of the greatest challenges in the history of the program. Continued advocacy from DCPS, state and federal legislators and support through various grants are critical to sustaining this flagship education program.

he Florida Counterdrug Program is committed to providing professional and cost-effective counterdrug support to local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies and community based organizations to reduce the supply of and demand for drugs. The Florida Counterdrug Program implements intelligence-driven, effects-based operations to support our operational objectives and interagency partner initiatives, and in response to Florida's most volatile transnational threats. The program operates in four mission sets: Analytical Support; Reconnaissance; Training; and Civil Operations.

Analytical Support: Our analysts focus on four core competencies: link analysis; document exploitation; commodity/financial transaction analysis; and drugtrafficker case construction. Our analysts create graphs, charts, and maps and analyze toll and financial transactions in order to develop case files on suspected drug-trafficking individuals and organizations. They also assist in developing and maintaining criminal intelligence databases for use in prosecution cases.

Reconnaissance: Our aerial and ground reconnaissance assets focus on known and alleged transshipment corridors, intermodal transportation hubs, and ports of entry where criminal organizations operate. Our surface assets perform area observation by land or water to detect and report illegal drug activities, and our aerial assets conduct reconnaissance of airspace, maritime, or surface areas (land and internal waterways of the U.S. and territories) for illicit drug activities.

Training: The Multijurisdictional Counterdrug Task Force Training provides training to combatant commands, Department of Defense personnel, Federal Law Enforcement Agencies, and community-based organizations. The training center utilizes state-of-the-art training aids, and our military instructors plan and conduct courses at the Camp Blanding Joint Training Center campus at no cost to the student. Additionally, our Mobile Training Teams and Internet-based courses provide 34 counterdrug-unique courses to 13 different states and three combatant commands.

Civil Operations Program: Our Civil Operations Program develops anti-drug coalition support throughout all 67 Florida counties. Through embedded partnership with our community-based organizations, the Civil Operations Program assists local leaders in developing and resourcing initiatives designed to reduce drug use in the community through education and interdiction.

YOUTH CHALLENGE ACADEMY

Florida National Guard SERVING THROUGH EDUCATION

• he Florida National Guard Youth ChalleNGe (FLYCA) is a community-based program that leads, trains and mentors at-risk youth to help them develop the necessary skills to become upstanding citizens and productive members of society. The academy promotes adult responsibility, values and basic lifestyle changes through a highly demanding. regimented, motivational environment. In this voluntary program, 16 to 18-year-old high school dropouts are immersed in a rigorous five-and-a-half month residential phase which mirrors the U.S. military's basic training. During the 12-month postresidential phase, each cadet who graduates from the residential phase is matched with a mentor from the community, who helps the cadet focus on and accomplish short and long term personal goals.

Last year, 332 young people from throughout the state of Florida were positively impacted by Florida's National Guard Youth ChalleNGe program. FLYCA has served cadets from 61 of Florida's 67 counties. Since 2001, FLYCA cadets contributed more than 270,000 hours of service to the communities of Florida, valued in excess of $1,725,000.

This past year, the Florida Youth ChalleNGe Academy, with the help of the National Guard Youth Foundation, teamed up with Royer Studios from California to take part in the "Animate My Action Plan" program. Through this program, FLYCA cadets learned the concepts of animation and gained valuable skills in goal setting, planning and completion of an animation product. Cadets also had the opportunity, through a renewed partnership with the Jacksonville Jaguars, to serve as volunteers during home games.

66 The academy promotes adult responsibility, values, and basic lifestyle changes through a highly demanding, regimented, motivational environment.

The FLYCA credit recovery program has enabled numerous cadets to complete high school credits and earn their diplomas. Cadets continue to find inspiration to work toward their long term goals through the confidence they gain at Youth ChalleNGe.

FORWARD MARCH

orward March is a community outreach program designed to assist economically disadvantaged, out-of-school youth and adults with making a successful transition into the workforce. The program assists students by teaching core academics and work readiness skills that facilitate job placement and retention. Participants' results are monitored through benchmarks and are incorporated into program delivery.

Forward March is funded through the State of Florida Department of Military Affairs. Since its inception in 1998, the program has served 9,755 students.

ABOUT FACE

bout Face is an after-school program serving economically disadvantaged youth, ages 13-17, who are still in school but at risk of becoming dropouts. The program is designed to help students by: improving their academic skills; teaching effective study habits; teaching life coping skills and good citizenship; and providing strong mentor and role model experiences. Participants' results are monitored through benchmarks and are incorporated into program delivery.

About Face is funded through the State of Florida Department of Military Affairs. Since its inception in 1997, the program has served 25,481 students.
